Quiz make-up assignment:

The average of your quiz grades counts for 10% of your final grade. I will automatically drop your lowest quiz grade. For many of you that is the “0” you receive when you miss class on the day of a quiz.

You can wipe away the next two lowest quiz grades by doing the following assignment: Write a “reading report” of 600-900 words on any single reading for the course that you have not written a previous assignment (mainly the mid-term) on. The reading has to have been before Taylor, since your final exam will be on the Taylor readings and readings after it. I will grade you on this assignment and that grade will replace the next 2 lowest quiz grades above your lowest one.
